College Life.

"We must educate, we must educate."—Beecher.

Vol. X.

Bridgewater, Virginia, November 16, 1908.

No. 1.

The above cut shows the College Chapel, where the entire school meets for a short prayer and song service each school day, and where three religious services are held on Sunday. Besides these three, Sunday-school, young peoples' meeting, and preaching, the Missionary Society, with a membership of about sixty students and teachers, meets here each Wednesday evening. It is a room sweet with associations to most of the students who have attended the College. Here some of them have given their hearts to Christ and their hand to the church, and have entered upon a new course in life. Here some have made their first prayer-meeting talk, or have first raised their voices in public prayer. Here some have practiced speaking, in the various meetings for young people, which has helped them to a mastery in utterance that is making them powers in the world to-day.

In this room the Bible Institute, to continue from January 11 to 22 next, will be held. The program, which is not fully completed, will be ready for distribution early in December. Send for a copy. The interest shown in these Institutes in recent years attest their helpfulness to christian workers in the various fields. We hope to make this one more helpful, if possible, than those hitherto have been. All who desire a larger usefulness in christian work are welcome. Come and bring your Bibles and tablets along. There is no charge for tuition. Board and rooms in the College buildings will be furnished to the extent of our capacity.

The Lecture Course.

Education consists of eminently more than the acquisition of digested text-books. Professor James of Harvard has even been advocating of late that one's ability to judge his fellows, to set a right estimate upon men, is the real test of an education. At any rate the mission of schooling is to prepare one for useful living and a consequent helpful influence; and any feature of the college that contributes to this end has a very legitimate place in student life and deserves encouragement.

The Lecture Course accomplishes two primary purposes. It brings the student into close, even vital acquaintance with the broad scholarship, culture and wide experience of the lectures and the careful education, training and experience of the musicians and reciters. It, furthermore, breaks the unvarying grind of succeeding school days and affords the recreation that invigorates. These are influences that are bound to tell for culture and ennobling aspirations.

This session we shall have five Lecture Course attractions. The season opens November 13th, with the New York Ladies' Concert Company, including a soprano soloist, a whistler and a reciter. This trio of talented women comes so well recommended that one is assured, if he attends, of having his aesthetic ideals bettered and his spirit refreshed for class-room tasks. December 12th, S. M. Spedon, the cartoonist, comes to us. Mr. Spedon began his career as professional illustrator for Frank Leslie and later edited Talent for thirteen years. His professional success is undoubted; and he will give us a rare peep into the cartoonist's calling and the way he looks at things and people. The pictures he will make for us will no doubt provoke an occasional smile and we shall be all the better for it. The College Girls Quartet will entertain, January 22. Each one of these young women is an accomplished soloist. Their evening of quartets, trios, duets and solos, such as they are able to give, will remind one helpfully of Shakespeare's lines: "The man that hath no music in his soul, nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds, is fit for treasons, stratagems, and spoils."

In February, Dr. C. C. Ellis will deliver a lecture of wit and wisdom, which he knows so well how to do. Professor John G. Scover, March 20, will extend this invitation: "Let us ramble together for an hour beside the sparkling streams and along the pathways of sunshine and good cheer, and may each one gather by the wayside, flowers of such sweetness that their influence will remain with us throughout this and the days that are to come." Of course we shall accept this kind invitation and leave the lecture hall with a strengthened belief that earnest, happy living is worth the effort.

The Coming Contest.

In the progress and advancement of a College of first rank, one important factor of literary activity should manifest itself; that of good literary spirit and enthusiasm. The stronger the spirit and enthusiasm the higher will be the work done.

This fact seems to have manifested itself in the character of the society work being done at Bridgewater College. The three societies are doing such work as any institution may be proud to recognize as first class. It is common to hear visitors say: "That was a fine reading or a booming debate."

A demonstrated fact that our society work is receiving approval is shown by the large crowd in attendance at each meeting. A few times the Acme Society has found it difficult to comfortably seat the Saturday evening crowds.

Some one may ask why such an interest? The character of society work has become better and the reason for this is not far to seek.

The debate last spring between Bridgewater College and Juniata has aroused an enthusiastic debating spirit. That debate brought out the possibilities of a greater work in public speaking, especially in effective debating in Bridgewater College.

There was shown in that contest the power and strength of this College in inter-collegiate debating. Our strength in athletics and magazine work has been shown in past years. But April 17, 1908, was the first time that the public debating strength of Bridgewater was tested. Although debated by the experienced Juniata team, yet that defeat was honorable and has only stirred the zeal for the next contest to be held at Huntingdon, Pa., after Christmas. The prospect for a strong team this year is promising.

There is plenty of good debating material in school and the aspirants for the various places on the team are hard at work. An effort will be made to have another contest beside the one with Juniata.

The time is here that all students should rally to the aid of the 1908-09 team and help them on to a double victory in "The Coming Contest."

President Yount, who has been confined to his room since about the 10th of August, we are glad to say, is able to be about again, although he is not fully recovered. He was able to take up his duties in the College about the first of November. On the evening of November 3, he gave an illustrated lecture on the Holy Lands to the students and faculty of the College, which was greatly enjoyed. This was the first of a series that he will give from time to time through the session.

A Completed Gymnasium.

Gymnastic games are very ancient as to their origin. The Greeks adopted gymnastic exercises as part of the course of medicine intended to counteract increasing luxury and indolence. The various exercises were speedily combined into a system. The Romans adopted the Greek system and constructed gymnasiums on a magnificent scale. The exercises in those days, when all men bore arms, were intended chiefly to train him as a soldier.

During the early part of the last century the science of gymnastics was revived. The German and English schools were the first to adopt them. Today the American people have felt and realized their importance so much that all their universities, and most colleges, and even many of the secondary schools have their gymnasiums.

Bridgewater College is coming to the front along this line, as well as in others, by having one of the largest gymnasium buildings in the State. It was built in 1908, and is a substantial two story brick building. The lower story will afford abundant space for dressing rooms with lockers and bathing facilities, base ball cage, hand ball rooms, etc. On the second, or main floor, a class of seventy-five members can be accommodated for gymnastic drill. This story is high, well lighted, and arranged for suspended apparatus, without obstruction, and thus affords excellent opportunity for both individual and class drill.

The building is so constructed that at any time a gallery can be put in with a first-class "Robert's patent" running track with seating accommodations for visitors. The object of the exercises on a running track is not to produce sprint, or distance runners, but to strengthen the thighs, legs, and ankles, and improve the respiration, circulation, etc. The second floor is a fine large room especially suited for basket ball, for which game in most other gymnasiums the space is too small.

A selection of specialized apparatus in light and heavy gymnastics has been made. These we expect to be put in place for use before long. An equipped gymnasium affords an excellent opportunity for the student who is pursuing an education. The student who wants a thoro education should train his body physically as well as his mind mentally. In taking these class drills one does not only train his muscles, but at the same time disciplines his mind in carrying out the commands. One may have a trained mind but this will be of little service to him with a poor physique.

The theory of the advantage derivable from gymnastics is simple enough. An admirable law of nature provides that, within certain limits, parts of the human frame increase in strength, aptitude, and size, in proportion to the use made of them. In gymnastics, this law is brought to bear successively on every part, and finally on the whole system in combined action. If the exertion be not carried so far as to induce excessive fatigue, all other parts of the body sympathize with the improving condition of that which is mainly exerted; the circulation excited from time to time by the exercise, acquires fresh vigor, and blood being driven with unwonted force into all parts of the system, every function is carried on with increased activity. An improvement in the general health becomes soon manifested, and the mind, if simultaneously cultivated with judgment, increases in power and endurance.

The best results can only be obtained by having a gymnasium which is well ventilated, equipped, and with systematic and regular exercises.

The Bible Institute.

The annual Bible Institute to be held at the College this year from January 11 to 22 is expected to be full of interest. A variety of work will be presented, such as seems to be most helpful to those who attend. An effort is made to make the work as practical and directly helpful as possible. Sunday School workers, teachers, superintendents and officers, leaders of Christian Workers' societies, missionaries, pastors, deacons—all who wish to improve themselves and gain new inspiration for their work will find these two weeks crowded with interest and helpfulness for them. In addition to the Institute work, there will be evangelistic services in the chapel each evening. This will be a great opportunity for spiritual growth and uplift. All who desire improvement are welcomed. Tuition is free. If you want room and board in the college, better write at once.

Heating Plant Repaired.

Former students will be glad to know that the line of the heating plant leading to Founders and Stanley Halls has been torn up and relaid. This part of the system has always been defective, and nearly every year has been giving way in the coldest part of the winter, when we could least afford to be without heat. Several times one or both of these buildings had to be cut off for a day or more at a time. The former defects, it is thought, have all been removed, and the line has been relaid with movable expansion joints, so that there is little likelihood of further difficulties such as we have been experiencing.

COLLEGE LIFE.

Published quarterly, for the uplift of College Life in Literature, Music, etc., by Bridgewater College.

EDITORS:

JOHN S. FLORY, CHAIRMAN

JUSTUS H. CLINE

SIDNEY L. BOWMAN, BUSINESS MANAGER.

SUBSCRIPTION, 20 CENTS PER ANNUM.

Winter term begins November 27.

Miss Cora Driver, B. E. '96, is teaching English in the city schools of Buchanan, Va., and finds her work both pleasant and interesting.

Mr. E. M. Hoover of last year's class spent a short while with friends at the College some time ago. He was on his way to West Virginia for a drove of cattle.

Programs are out announcing Dr. John S. Flory as one of the instructors in a Sunday-School Teachers' Institute to be held at New Carlisle, Ohio, during holiday week.

Miss Alda Cline, B. A. '08, and Miss Mary Rothgeb have been occasional visitors at the College this fall. They are both teaching in the Pleasant Valley graded schools.

S. L. Bowman, our new business manager, was absent from the office several days, having gone to West Virginia to bring home a bunch of some fifty cattle with which to stock his farm.

Geo. W. Flory has been giving most of his time this fall to evangelistic work. Early in November he started on a trip to Ohio and Indiana where he will be engaged until about the holidays.

Misses Edith Driver and Katie Zirkle, accompanied by Mr. C. H. Zigler, were visitors at the College a short time ago. Mr. Zigler completed the B. E. course last June and is now teaching.

James A. Fry, treasurer of the Board of Trustees, has been very much indisposed this fall. At this writing he is able to be about, but is by no means well. We hope for his speedy recovery.

J. Percy Templeman, B. A. '07, has been a recent sufferer from a severe attack of typhoid fever at Clarksburg, W. Va., whither he had gone with his mother to live. About the same time with him his brother, E. Bryan Templeman, of the class of '97 and now a rising young lawyer of Clarksburg, was also stricken. We are glad to say, however, that both have now sufficiently recovered to be about their duties again.

The body of students enrolled thus far this term represents the states of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee, North Carolina, and the District of Columbia.

Miss Lera Wampler, B. E. '08, paid her College friends a short visit early in the session. This is her first year in the class room as teacher and she is meeting with excellent success. She is teaching at Timberville.

Ernest Hall, who carried off two diplomas last June, one showing graduation in the B. E. course, the other in the Piano course, is this year continuing his musical studies in the conservatory of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

The many friends of Mr. J. S. Crumpacker, who was prevented from returning to College on account of a spell of typhoid fever last summer, will be glad to know that he has been steadily improving and his entire recovery is speedily looked for.

J. A. Garber, formerly a student and teacher in the College, now cashier of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Timberville, Va., attended the Virginia Lee anniversary on the evening of November the 6th, and gave two readings that were very much enjoyed.

Harold Myers, B. A. '08, is principal of the Pleasant Valley Graded Schools, and is meeting with excellent success in his work. He delivered an address, in his usual interesting manner, at the anniversary of the Virginia Lee Society, November 6.

Among the recent donations to the library was a set of President Roosevelt's works in seven volumes. The set is bound in half leather and will be an addition to the library of permanent value. The donation was made by Dr. G. F. Hollar, of Bridgewater, and is highly appreciated.

Professor J. H. Cline finds his work at Northwestern University interesting and profitable. He is pursuing graduate courses in Geology and Biology and will complete this year all the work required for the M. A. degree. In addition to this work he has been made an assistant in the department of Geology and has been teaching one class regularly. His year's experience will be of incalculable worth to him.

Two members of last year's class are students this year at the University of Virginia, Frank Wright, B. A., and J. B. Stone, B. E. Mr. Wright has matriculated in the Graduate Department and is pursuing courses in Geology and Chemistry. He is a candidate for the M. A. degree and will capture that prize next year. Mr. Stone is in the Department of Medicine and of course is after his M. D. He will get it three years from next June. Both received full credit for the work done at Bridgewater.

Parlor Social.

The lady boarding students gave their first reception this session on Tuesday evening, November 3.

From 6:45 to 8:00 o'clock the students were entertained by an illustrated lecture on the Holy Land by President Yount. The lecture was both interesting and highly instructive and we think the student body should feel that they are especially fortunate in hearing Prof. Yount on these subjects, since he is personally acquainted with the places and people upon which he bases his talks.

After the lecture which was given in the College Chapel, the students went to the Ladies' Parlor where a very interesting program was given by Mrs. Coffman and the young ladies of the Dormitory. There were games and other amusements, but the chief feature of the evening was a humorous play, "The Sweet Family." "Ma Sweet," who was represented by Miss Sylvia Burns, and her seven lovely daughters, who, she said, were "all nice looking and accomplished," "Dorothy Delilah" having been educated at the "Boston Observatory," and "Elizabeth Eliza" being a "fine dramatic recitationist," while all the others were equally well qualified for the stage, gave a program which sent the audience into convulsions of laughter. Miss Gladys Cline represented "Glorianna Gadabout," the youngest daughter who could do nothing but giggle, and deserves especial mention for the way in which she recited "Mary Had a Little Lamb" and for keeping up her reputation for perpetual giggling to perfection. Miss Flora Hoover posed as the "dramatic recitationist" and Miss Frances Showalter acted the part of the "observatory musicianer." The four other characters were well interpreted by Misses Ethel Bowman, Viola Snively, Ella Miller and Annie Zigler.

Refreshments were served and the party dispersed at the ringing of the ten o'clock bell, feeling that the social side of their lives at B. C. was being considered by those in charge as well as the literary side.

The Literary Societies.

What is the students motive in striving for an education? Is it merely a selfish whim? Certainly not. He is toiling diligently that he may be better qualified to serve those with whom he will come in contact in life. But to accomplish this purpose it is not only necessary that he train his mind. No matter how beautiful, how sublime, or how elevated his thought it will do others no good if he cannot express himself clearly. If the speaker appears before his audience and delivers his thought in a graceful, easy manner it will be much more effective.

It is in the literary society that the awkward, stammering boy is developed into a man of grace and fluency. Here it is that he is fitted to serve both the Church and the State.

Our societies this year are doing better work than ever before. We have the two rival societies, the Virginia Lee and the Victorian. Their spirit was clearly manifested a few weeks ago when the management of the Philomathean offered a prize contest to the two societies. A prize was to be awarded to the one that secured the most subscriptions for the Philomathean Monthly. The members of both societies worked diligently. At the end of the two weeks the Virginia Lees had gotten one hundred and twenty subscriptions, and the Victorians had secured one hundred and ten. The anniversary of the Virginia Lee Society was given Nov. 6, and Victorians will render theirs Nov. 20.

The Acme is the senior society composed of those persons whom the faculty has seen fit to promote from the other two societies. The programs are good and are well attended. A mock trial was given Saturday night, Oct. 31. It was impossible to accomodate the crowd in the society hall and the program was given in the chapel.

We are well pleased with our success but our ideal has not yet been reached, and we are looking forward to better results in the future.

Prof. Moherman Coming.

Professor Tully S. Moherman, B. S. L., B. D., who up to this time, has been prevented by previous engagements from taking up his work at the head of the Bible Department in this College, will have arrived in Bridgewater by the time this paper reaches its readers, and will be in readiness to begin his work with the opening of the winter term. Professor Moherman is a scholar, and an educator of considerable experience. Biblical work is his chosen line. He has been connected with several institutions as instructor in this kind of work. For several years he was at the head of the Bible department of Manchester College, Indiana. Later he was identified with a Bible Institute in Canton, Ohio. He is a minister of the Gospel and an ordained bishop in the Church of the Brethren. He has done considerable evangelistic work and with excellent success. Recently he has been pastor of the Brethren Church at Ashland, Ohio. We hail his coming with pleasure and regard him as a valuable addition to our faculty. His family will accompany him. We welcome them all to our midst.

The Music Department.

Perhaps no department of the College has grown so rapidly in the last few years as has the Department of Music; due to the fact that no effort has been spared by the director and his assistants to make it one of the best Music Schools in the South. By referring to "Music Education in the United States," sent out by the Government it will be found that it ranks first in Virginia among the Music Schools connected with a College, and compares favorably with the whole South.

Prof. Roller, the director, who spent last year in Oberlin Conservatory, in study, has returned to the College with new ideas and improved methods. It is his purpose to continue to add to the department such studies and enthusiasm as will make it equal to the best.

For this year the courses have been strengthened and developed, and are receiving the patronage they deserve. At present there are more students studying music than have ever before been enrolled at one time. The present teaching force has all its time occupied and another teacher will be added for the winter and spring terms.

A new piano was purchased at the beginning of the session, and another will likely be gotten before the spring term.

With the present equipment of instruments it has become impossible to furnish practice hours for all the students during the day. Electric lights have been installed in the practice rooms in Stanley Hall, that they might be accommodated at night.

The department has been fortunate in securing Miss Thornell of Iowa, as head of the Piano Department. She has already proven herself to be an efficient teacher of sterling qualities, who has put new life into the study of piano.

Miss Gochenour, a former graduate of B. C. in music, is proving herself a valuable assistant in piano, and is upholding the proud record that Bridgewater graduates always enjoy.

One of the best things added to the department this year is the Choral Union, which meets every Thursday evening. It is the purpose of this organization to study Choral works of a high order and give occasional concerts. At present they are studying "The Nativity," by Geibel, which will be rendered at the Christmas concert, and "O Come Let us Worship," by Mendelssohn, which will likely be rendered on February 3, the rooth anniversary of the author's birth.

The men's club and also the ladies' club have been organized and are doing some good work. The men's club will give a concert the 4th of December.

On the whole the department is enjoying the best patronage and doing the best work it has ever done. If you want to do real work in music, you will find no better place to do it than at Bridgewater College. Get ready to enter at the beginning of the winter term.

"Marriages."

Among the recent marriages of the College family we may mention first Dr. J. S. Flory, who was married to Miss Vinnie Mikesell on the eighteenth of August at the home of the bride in Covington, Ohio. Dr. and Mrs. Flory now reside near the College, where he is pursuing his work as teacher.

On September the second, Miss Crissie Heddings, who was a graduate of the class of '08 and for the past two years teacher of the primary department of the College, was wedded to Mr. A. P. Bucher, at her home in Midland, Va. Mr. and Mrs. Bucher now live in Chicago, where Mr. Bucher is engaged in business.

Another member of the faculty, Miss Laura Em-swiler, was likewise a victim of the tender passion and was married on the 23d of September to Mr. Amos Huls, of Winston-Salem, N. C. On the evening of the 22d Mrs. Simmers, a sister of the bride, gave a reception at her home near Harrisonburg. Quite a number of the students and teachers of B. C. were present and had a very enjoyable evening. "Miss Laura" was very loyal to her old College friends for the wedding party was made up entirely of those who are at present or who have formally been teachers or students of the College.

And not only among the teachers did Cupid fling his arrows but among the students as well, for on July 14th Miss Caroline Virginia Neff, of Timber-ville, Va., was married to Mr. Andrew McKinney, of Bridgewater. Both have been students at the College and are well and favorably known.

College Life extends to all its best wishes.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Wayland and son of the University of Virginia spent several days with Bridgewater friends early in September. While here Dr. Wayland preached at the chapel and at the church in town and addressed two of the literary societies. All of these discourses were listened to with interest.

The first donation to the library this session was made by Prof. N. D. Cool, B. E. '07, principal of schools in the city of Winchester, Va. He and his family were visitors at the College at the opening of the session, September 1st. It has been the custom of Professor Cool for some years to make a donation to the library each session—a practice that is to be commended.

Horace K. Wright, B. A. '05, and for the last two years a divinity student in the Theological Department of Princeton University, spent last vacation in mission work at Edmondson, in the Northwest Territory of the Dominion of Canada. Since his return to the States in September the contrast in climate has been so great that he has been an almost constant sufferer from rheumatism. Just recently, however, he has been able to resume his regular work.
